MILBURN NAMED NEW ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

McFarland Creates Post, Chumrau Selected for Athletic Business Manager

Lieut. Gen. Frank W. Milburn, former Grizzly coach and army combat commander, has been appointed athletic director at MSU, President Carl McFarland announced yesterday. He succeeds Clyde W. "Cac" Hubbard whose resignation was announced last week.

President McFarland also announced the appointment of Paul Chumrau, director of the Placement bureau, as athletic business manager. He succeeds Fred Cunningham, athletic ticket manager and publicity director, who recently resigned to enter public relations or radio work in California or Denver.

The University Publications and News Service, a part of the Public Service division, will take over athletic publicity responsibilities. An additional man may be named to the staff to handle the work.

McFarland conferred yesterday with the Faculty Athletic Committee and the coaching staff and later met separately with the coaches.

"Success of our athletic program," the president said, "takes teamwork on the part of all concerned. With the organizational changes we have made, clarifying responsibilities and functions and giving the department the services of one trained in business management, teamwork becomes much easier. The coaches as well as the faculty athletic committee were consulted on the appointments of General Milburn and Mr. Chumrau and the organizational changes."

General Milburn was professor of military science and tactics and coach of football and baseball at the University from 1926 to 1931. Edward Chinske, now head football coach, played on the teams which Milburn coached at that time.

During World War II the general, with Maj. Harry Adams, Grizzly track coach as aide, was a corps commander in the invasion of Europe. He was commanding general of the U. S. I Corps when the UN forces cracked the "iron triangle" in Korea. He served in Korea under both Generals MacArthur and Ridgeway and twice was interim commander of the U. S. Army in Korea.

Last April 30, General Milburn retired from the Army. He turned down several offers of an executive nature in industry to return to the University. Last July, he was guest of honor at a welcome-home dinner attended by more than 30 ex-Grizzlies from three states who played under him when he was coach here.

General Milburn coached the University's freshman football team this past season. When he assumes his new duties in January he may give up that job.

Since their college days at West Point, Milburn and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower have been close personal friends. Both played on Army football teams. During Eisenhower's campaign trip through Montana, General Milburn rode on the candidate's train to visit and talk over old times with the president-elect.

Chumrau graduated from the MSU School of Business Administration in 1939. While a senior here he was ASMSU business manager. Chumrau played basketball and football for the Anaconda Copperheads for three years, and was a member of the famous Anaconda "Wonder Team."

After graduation from MSU he coached at Cut Bank high school. He joined the army after the U. S. entered World War II and became director of training, Ninth Service command, special training unit, with headquarters at Arlington and Camp McQuaide, Calif., and later at Salt Lake.

After leaving the army with the rank of major, Chumrau entered business in Long Beach, Calif., and later operated a mountain lodge in Nevada. In 1950 he returned to the University to become director of the Placement bureau.

Chumrau is a well known state athletic official, having officiated in both the high school class AA and class A championship football games this past fall. He also officiated at the state basketball tournament last spring.

Campus Magazine Considered For Replacing Mountaineer

A campus magazine to take the place of the defunct Mountaineer may be published winter quarter.

A special committee met yesterday to discuss plans for an all-school magazine which will include the writing of students in every department on campus. The new magazine will bear no resemblance to the Mountaineer, literary publication containing abstract writing, which was abandoned last spring.

"We want contributions from every student on campus who likes to write," Henry Larom said to the group who met yesterday. Mr. Larom, member of the English department who has done considerable free-lance writing, pointed out: "Students in the English department aren't the only ones who can turn out a good piece of writing. If a forestry major has written a good thesis, let's print it."

The same holds true for students in every department. The new magazine will not confine itself to short stories and poetry as did the Mountaineer. Every piece of writing, from English themes to history papers to science fiction, will be considered for publication.

An editorial board will be set up to read these manuscripts and choose the best ones for publication. Every article or story or poem printed will bear the author's name and his class in school.

"This will prevent less experienced writers from being discouraged from submitting their writing," Mr. Larom said. A freshman may not have as much training as upperclassmen, but that won't keep his writing from being printed, if it's good.

It was pointed out that students should save their themes and stories from past quarters. A collection box will be available for contributions.

"We want as many people as possible to help out on this project," Mr. Larom said. Students who are interested in writing, magazine layout, advertising, or art are welcome to come to the next meeting of the committee next Thursday at noon in the Student Union.

Plans for continuing the project include preparing a dummy, checking on printing costs, collecting material, and selecting a name for the magazine. Suggestions for the name may be submitted to the committee.

Tryouts For Play Continue Today

Tryouts for the Masquer's winter quarter production, "Death of a Salesman," will continue today. Those students trying out will read from 3-5:30 at Simpkins hall, and 7:30 to 9:30 at Old Science auditorium.

The final casting will be at Simpkins between 7:30 and 10:30 Monday. Eight men and five women will receive roles.

APO to Sponsor Christmas Card Guessing Contest

The APOs have devised a Christmas card plan to accompany a Christmas tree which will be placed in the Student Union.

Students and faculty alike are asked to send cards. Students should address them to their fellow students, and faculty to the student body. The cards will be used as decorations for the tree.

On each card, the senders are asked to estimate the number of students they believe will attend MSU winter quarter. They should also date each card, and mail it to APO, Corbin hall.

The earliest dated card selecting the correct number will win a $5 prize, which will be awarded at the first APO night club dance in the redecorated Copper room winter quarter. The student need not attend the dance to win.

All cards must be sent before Dec. 10. The APOs ask that as many students as possible send cards and estimate enrollment.

New Grid Captain

Joe Roberts, a six-foot, 185-pound junior from Butte, was elected football captain for next year's Grizzly team by his teammates yesterday. Roberts played center on the offensive team for the past two years.

Roberts, in his senior year as a Butte Bulldog, was named to the All-State team as an end.

CB Discusses Fieldhouse In Meeting With President

Central board met with Pres. Carl McFarland yesterday afternoon in an unofficial meeting. The hush-hush conference, lasting two hours, concerned the proposed MSU fieldhouse. The board will meet with President McFarland again next Thursday in an effort to iron out financial matters involved in building the structure.

The president requested that no financial sums be published until he issues a pamphlet explaining the purpose of the fieldhouse, and the origin of the funds needed to build it.

In the event the fieldhouse is built, it will be located north of the women's center. It will have three major departments; an armory for army, air, and possibly navy ROTC units; a large pavilion; and a section devoted to athletic facilities.

The proposed seating capacities would be 6,000 for athletic activities, and 3,000 for theatriac productions. The difference comes in the arrangement of seats and stages.

The building, hypothetically designed similar to a Quonset hut, but with many variations in material and size, would have a manager to co-ordinate the activities.

When board members asked President McFarland if the fieldhouse would include ice-making facilities for skating, he said he thought the proposed ice skating could be more advantageously located elsewhere. He said if the rink was in the fieldhouse, other activities would be jeopardized because of the popularity of ice skating. Since it takes hot water to make ice, he suggested that the rink be built in conjunction with a proposed new swimming pool.

Pub Board to Pick Kaimin Associate In Meeting Today

Applications for Kaimin associate editor are due this morning at eight o'clock at Publications board meeting in the Central Board room. The committee will also interview candidates at that time. A recommendation by the board will be referred to Central board next week for consideration and, if approved, the new associate will serve on the Kaimin staff winter quarter.

Music Group Gives Concert

Beethoven's "Symphony No. 7 in A major, Opus 92" will be the featured number of a concert by the University Symphony orchestra in the Student Union auditorium Sunday evening at 8:15. Eugene Andrie will conduct the orchestra.

The program will include "Prelude to the opera Lohengrin" by Wagner; "Fanfare from 'La Peri'" by Dukas, and "El Relicario" by Padilla.

Students Given Questionnaire About Library

The University Library committee has sent out a student questionnaire to determine just what students think is desirable in planning the proposed library. Such planning would incorporate the desires and ideas of students as well as faculty and administration.

Some of the ideas included in the student information questionnaire are proposals for one large general reading room; a lounge-type reading room with rugs, floor lamps, easy chairs, tables, and table lamps instead of or in addition to the large general reading room; smoking rooms; the present central desk setup for distributing books or open-stack privileges for all students; incorporating all library materials on campus into the main library or having them as they now exist; typing centers; a document and periodicals room; and music room.

Spurs Honor Big Sisters

Members of Tanan of Spur presented historical spurs to their big sisters at a banquet in the Missoula hotel Wednesday night.

Rusty spurs claiming owners such as Tom Mix, Charlie Russell, and a Mexican bandit were given to junior girls who served in the honorary during the 1951-52 school year at MSU. Some spurs carried authentic histories.

The freshman men's quartet, composed of Lewis Knox, Helena; Tom Nelson, Great Falls; Don Schessler, Laurel; and Bob Spiwak, Rumson, N. J., sang. Alice Ann Buls, Missoula, sang several Italian songs. Marjorie Lovberg, Missoula, gave the reading, "The Littlest Angel."

"I think of Spur as a national citizenship honorary rather than a service group," said Dr. Maurine Clow, associate dean of students, in a short talk to the group. "Spur is composed of leaders who know how to be followers, too—a perfect training for good citizenship," she said.

Other guests were Mrs. Ross Williams, adviser to Spur, and Mrs. Dayton Lockridge, a charter member of the Bozeman Tanan of Spur.

If Miss Montana
Stays on Campus

AWS executive board will decide if Miss Montana of 1953 will be chosen on the MSU campus at its regular meeting next Wednesday at 4:30 p.m.

Karen Whittet, Miss Montana of 1952, will attend the meeting to answer questions about the program. Also attending will be Jo Ann Grundstrom, chairman of this year's Miss Montana pageant.

Angie Oberto, Red Lodge, and Davis Watson, Deer Lodge, were appointed to plan and distribute a form listing AWS committees to all women's living groups. Women interested in working on AWS committees should sign the list. Committees open for members are: standards, off-campus women, elections, living group speakers, and placement bureau.

EDITORIAL—

The Gleam Strong,
The Sight Dim

Tuesday the Kaimin editorially discussed the problems and possibilities of the newly vacated post of MSU athletic director. We speculated that Track Coach Harry Adams might be the next athletic director and also that Lt. Gen. Frank Milburn might be the gleam in the administration's eye. Well, today we realize Milburn was the gleam, and is the gleam, in the administration's eye.

But as for the eye, we wonder about the sight. Milburn is undoubtedly a man of many qualifications, primarily military. Yes, he was a Grizzly coach back in the early twenties, but that was some time ago. And until he assumed MSU freshman coaching duties this fall he has not been in contact with collegiate athletics. Our collegiate sporting scene has changed considerably since then. Today it is big business. Today it requires constant contacts and knowledge of immediate collegiate athletics to properly direct.

But maybe we have the wrong idea of the duties of an athletic director. Maybe an athletic director is a collegiate administrative title for a public relations man—a goodwill disciple.

Maybe our sight will appear bitter to some, but it is the common sight of many of the students from Grizzly football players to coke-store quarterbacks.

The gleam in the eye, however, appears as fog to the mind.—L.K.

Skiers Plan Week End At Whitefish

Preparations are underway for the Ski club week-end party at Whitefish, Jan. 9-11. Lew Penwell, president, said tickets will be sold in the Coke store Dec. 10-12. Skiers who deposit $10 before vacation time will have first choice of residences at the Big Mountain resort, he said. Skiers who do not register before vacation will be charged $20 for the week-end's activities.

Women planning to take part in the week end's fun and frolic should pick up a form at the Coke store ticket table and turn it in at the Dean of Women's office. All women must get their "permission forms" before vacation time.

The Ski club auction will be Dec. 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the Copper room. Penwell asks that all equipment to be sold at the auction should be tagged bearing the owner's name, address, and phone number. This will enable purchasers to contact owners before the auction, he said.

Grizzlies Open Hoop Season Tonight

BY BOB CHESNOVER

The Grizzly basketball squad will open another rigorous basketball season this evening against the Washington State Cougars at Pullman, Wash. The Grizzlies have not fared too well in the past with the Cougars, winning only 12 of 52 games played in the last 40 years. Last year the Cougars won three out of four from the Grizzlies. The Grizzly win was a 52-51 thriller.

Saturday night the Grizzlies meet Idaho, a team rated high in the Pacific Coast conference. Last year Idaho won a pair of thrillers 64-58 and 68-54 from the scrappy Silvertips. Against Idaho the Grizzly all-time record looks better. The Grizzlies have won 23 of 51 games with Idaho.

KGVO will broadcast the game tonight with Washington State. Game time will be 8:30. The game Saturday night will not be broadcast.

These pre-conference games will give Dahlberg's fast break brand of basketball a chance to warm up before they jump into Skyline play after the Christmas vacation.

Dahlberg has been on the coaching staff at Montana since 1937 and during this reign his teams have set all but one of the 20 existing Grizzly hoop records.

Dahlberg's starting "firehouse-five" will be co-captains Chuck Davis and Mickey Luckman at forwards; Rich Johnson and Eddie Anderson at the guards; and at the center position it will be either Pat Curran or Dale Johnson.

Davis is playing his last season at Montana and it should be his best. Last season Davis led all other Grizzly scorers with 369 points for a 14.8 game average. Davis looked good in scrimmages earlier in the week as he scored 25 points against the Cubs.

Luckman, hampered by leg injuries last season, is a good man under the backboards and jumps as if he had springs on his feet.

A junior this year, Anderson has a lot more basketball to play for Montana. Anderson has one of the finest set shots on the squad and is accurate from far out. Last year Anderson was second highest scorer for the Grizzlies with a 9.1 game average.

Rich Johnson has a big job in trying to fill the shoes of Hal Sherbeck, last year's Grizzly spark plug. Although he is the smallest man on the squad, 5 feet 10 inches, Johnson is speedy, shifty, and a hustler.

Dale Johnson, slender 6 foot 6 inch center, will be alternating at center with Pat Curran, 6 foot 4 inch sophomore. Johnson was among the leading scorers last year and should hit his peak this year. Curran did not play last year because he was a transfer student, but he worked with the team all last season.

A wealth of reserve strength will be available for Dahlberg. Earlier in the week Dahlberg had much praise for the efforts of Don Brant. This was Brant's first week out for practice and he showed fine possibilities, according to Dahlberg. Before coming to Montana Brant had played ball with the Glendive junior college last winter. Other reserve men are Jack Coppedge, Ed Fine, Bob Luoma, Jim McNaney, and George Samuelson.

I-M Swimming Starts Today In Men's Gym

The champion Phi Delta Theta swimming team will begin to defend their crown this afternoon when they compete with other teams in the trial heats of the intramural swimming meet.

Seven teams will be competing in six events at 4 this afternoon at the University pool.

The teams entered are Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Chi, Alpha Tau Omega, Theta Chi, Sigma Nu, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Phi Delta Theta.

Members of each team will compete in the 60-yard medley relay, the 40-yard free-style, 80-yard backstroke, 80-yard free-style, 80-yard breaststroke, and 160-yard free-style relay. In the 60-yard medley relay, one man from each team swims one length of the pool with a backstroke, another swims one length with a breaststroke, and a third swims one length free-style.

The Sigma Chis, ATOs, and Phi Deltas are the only teams that are entered in every event. The Phi Sigs have men entered in the 40-yard and 80-yard free-style races, and the Theta Chis, Sigma Nus, and SAEs are entered in the 40-yard and 80-yard free-style and in the 80-yard backstroke and breaststroke.

The Phi Deltas won the meet last year with 43 points. They were closely followed by the Sigma Nus.
